

Beautiful

Cecil County is tucked along the upper banks of the Chesapeake Bay, right along I-95 between Philadelphia and Baltimore. It's considered by many to be a traveler's harbor in a hectic world, offering lush farmland, rolling hills, horse country, shimmering harbors, antique and outlet shopping, and historic villages for the enjoyment of all.

Cecil's land covers approximately 225,261 acres. Waterways border much of it, and farms are scattered from one corner to the other. Orchards, dairy farms, exquisite horse farms, crop farms, and Christmas tree farms, offer the traveler a peek at the world of family agriculture, and a way of life that has all but disappeared in many parts of the Country. Cecil County keeps alive the grand tradition of farming, and offers visitors an opportunity to experience a trail ride through the beautiful woods, having family fun at the orchard, spending a day on the farm, taking a tour of a historic herb farm, visiting horse country, experiencing the County Fair or a unique agricultural event, and creating the memorable heartwarming tradition of cutting down your own Christmas tree for the holidays.
